Chartered Surveyors

Charities Act Services

“Bruton Knowles LLP is an independently owned national property consultancy advising charities that hold property and land throughout the UK.”

“Our aim is to provide high quality specialist property advisory and consultancy services with a commitment to working with charities and trustees to accurately value property that comes under Section 117-121 of the Charities Act 2011.

Our experienced team has proven property expertise and in-depth charity sector knowledge to help you get the most out of the assets you hold.

Whether identifying savings or opportunities to generate income from land and buildings, we continue to deliver advice that adds real value.

We would welcome the opportunity to discuss how Bruton Knowles can help you.”

Introduction

Bruton Knowles offers you a unique insight drawn from extensive charity client experience and market knowledge to help you get the most out of your assets, advising you on how to use them more effectively for front line services, accommodation for operational support, or as a source of finance.

Our core strength is our ability to call on a wide pool of skills, expertise and resources through our network of regional offices.

We have established an experienced team of skilled chartered surveyors with a single goal to support clients and deliver long-term objectives such as realising best value from property, releasing unwanted property assets and identifying savings and opportunities to generate income from land and buildings.

We are used to working collaboratively with Trustees. You will find us flexible in our approach working together to improve long term performance of operational and non-operational property assets.

“Just thought you would like to know that I took the Trust’s Chairman and one of the Trustees to Stratford Court, and to say they were blown away by what has been achieved is probably a reasonable appraisal.

I would take this opportunity to thank you for helping to make this scheme something really special. Your interpretations of my initial ideas have brought things to life and I do hope that we can take the learning from this project into future ones.”
